Romulus lands senior housing

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

The city of Romulus has received a grant from the federal department of housing and urban development for the construction of a senior housing project.

The project is a major accomplishment for the city and the developer because HUD officials announced several months ago that funds for senior housing were very scarce due to cutbacks by the Reagan Administration. After going through an extensive application process HUD awarded the grant.

The housing project will include 65 units to accommodate elderly and handicapped persons.

"We have worked long and hard for this, it's good to see that it may finally come about," said Dennis Oakes, director of economic development for Romulus.

HUD made the award through Cooperative Services, Inc., a non-profit organization specializing in management of low-income housing for elderly and handicapped people.

The developer will receive a mortgage loan of almost $2 million, in addition to a grant for more than $400,000 which will be used to subsidize the rents.

The property for the project has been optioned by the city and the developer. The 2.8-acre site is located at the southeast corner of Wayne and Doddard roads, west of city hall.

The preliminary plan, prepared by the architect, calls for a two-story building facing Wayne Road. Efficiency apartments and one-bedroom apartments will be available.

Rents will be based on income and could be determined in the next few months as the finances for the project are negotiated with HUD.

"I want to congratulate Mayor Beverly McAnally and Cooperative Services for their diligent effort in getting the award," said Congressman William Ford, D-Taylor.

Construction is expected to begin within the next 12 to 18 months, with apartments available for occupancy one year after construction begins.

McAnally attributed the success of the project to lobbying efforts in Washington, a good working relationship with Congressman Ford and his efforts on behalf of the project and the excellent track record of Cooperative Services.

Health center future not decided

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee Coordinator Kathleen Conway attempted to clear up misconceptions concerning the work of the advisory group.

The advisory committee, which has been awarded a $20,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Public Health will use the funds to continue planning health services for Romulus teens.

Committee members have been working since September 1987 to determine the health needs of Romulus students.

Results of survey completed by students, parents and teachers confirmed that there were many unmet health needs among Romulus youth.

Some areas of concern include substance abuse, mental health problems and routine school and sports physicals.

In an effort to meet the growing teen health need in Romulus the committee will use the grant to further evaluate the needs of students and investigate possible models for health services in order to determine which services should be provided.

One of the considerations is developing a teen health center to be built in or near the schools.

Rescue drill tests emergency staff

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

In an effort to better prepare fire departments and other emergency staffs in the area, a mock accident will be staged Oct. 11 in Wayne.

The exercise will incorporate emergency personnel from Romulus.

The mock disaster is being planned by the Western Wayne County Hospital Emergency Committee and will take place along the railroad tracks north of Van Born and south of Annapolis on Van Buren Road.

This particular exercise will involve a train, truck and school bus. Students from Benjamin Franklin Junior High School will act as victims of the accidents. A hazardous chemical spill will also take place.

"We are trying to see how our fire department would respond in case such a disaster, or one like it, were to occur," said Margaret LeDuc, director of emergency preparedness in Romulus.

This type of mock procedure will also help to test the chain of command, said LeDuc.

For added realism, the mock victims will be made to appear bleeding and injured. These victims will be strategically placed around the accident in order to further test the responses of rescue personnel involved.

Arriving rescue teams will be required to move about the

Businesses and educators unite for future

Businesses working together with schools to help enrich both education and the work place is one of many goals set by the Partnerships for Education Task Force.

The task force, which was recently established in Romulus will work with schools, businesses, the community and local government in order to enrich the quality of education while also providing local businesses with a trained and qualified work force.

"What we are doing has been done in many communities but our job is a little more complicated because we are involving the community at large and local governments," said Ed Clark, coordinator of the program, "but it is essential that we do this if we wish our success to go beyond the school and business arena.

The Task Force will provide students with career exposure, awareness and preparation. In order to get the information necessary for this type of preparation educators have turned to local businesses.

"Kids need to know what they have to do to prepare themselves for a career, and who better to tell them what they need than the actual businesses that will be hiring them," Clark said.

According to the program outline businesses will also provide technology, as well as information and business expertise.

In return the business will receive a well-trained work force for the future as well as use of the facilities and resources the schools have to offer.

"We will share facilities, equipment, instruction, and also will be able to develop manuals and other educational materials that often cost

Heritage farm to be developed

The Wayne County Intermediate School District received $25,000 in state funding Sept. 29 to develop a heritage farm at the Wayne County Education and Service Center, in Wayne.

The restoration project will provide intergenerational day camp and educational field trip experiences for students and senior citizens to help them understand the historical development of the area and the society which preceded them, according to state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township), who presented the grant monies.

A hands-on museum will feature historical farm equipment and agricultural relics. The windmill on the site will be renovated, and the farm will demonstrate gardening techniques, vocational landscaping and the care of farm animals.

A check presentation was staged at the county Education and Service Center. The event was attended by Norman Otto Stockmeyer Sr., former WCISD board member, and Wayne City Manager Thomas Daily.

Huron orchestra still to perform

A Saturday performance by J.C. Heard & Orchestra will still be presented at the Huron Civic Theater, in New Boston, despite the death of renowned jazz drummer J.C. Heard.

Heard, 71, died of an apparent heart attack Sept. 27 at Beaumont Hospital, in Royal Oak, after becoming ill at a friend's home.

The orchestra had several planned appearances in the area, including the Saturday event. These scheduled events will be honored, according to a spokesperson for the theater. Future performances will be presented in tribute to Heard.

Cab Calloway, Heard's featured drummer, will replace Heard in the performance, which is set for 8 p.m. at the theater, 32044 Huron River Drive, three miles west of Flat Rock, across from the Michigan Memorial Park. Tickets are $8 for adults, $7 for students and senior citizens.

For more information, call 782-5380.

Emergency drill staged in Wayne

An emergency preparedness drill will disrupt traffic at Van Born and Hunter roads at 9 a.m. Oct. 11.

Members of the Western Wayne County Hospital Emergency Committee are planning the drill, which will involve local safety officials and many area hospitals.

The Chessie System Railroad will also participate in the mock disaster.

The simulated accident will involve a truck, a school bus and a train. Area students will act as "victims" of the accident.

Railroad police will reroute train traffic away from the area during the drill, and local police will stop traffic on Hunter, between Annapolis and Van Born, in Wayne.

Police officials are urging motorists to avoid the area if possible and to not be alarmed by emergency vehicles at the site.

Romulus mayor is a trustee

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally was elected one of six trustees on the Michigan Municipal League Board of Directors during the annual league business meeting Thursday.

McAnally will serve a three-year term on the board. The annual meeting was staged in Saginaw.

Several area communities are members of the league, a 501-member-community advocacy agency to work cooperatively to improve the administration of municipal government in Michigan.

How does your garden grow?

Quite well if you're Jim Sibert, of Sumpter Township. Sibert harvested more than 20 melons this season, melons which grew threw the cracks in his cement. One of the melons has topped off at 40 pounds. Two others are still on the vine. Despite the advantages of harvest season, Sibert did have one complaint with his melon crop. "I couldn't use the patio all summer," he explained. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Area beautification efforts lauded

Many area beautification efforts have been applauded by Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc.

They present various awards each year to community-sponsored beautification efforts to promote such activities within the state.

This year, the city of Westland received four awards, the most ever earned by one community in one year.

Award presentations will be staged Oct. 6 at the Keep Michigan Beautiful annual meeting in Charlevoix.

Other awards earned by local communities include:

■ The Friends of the Rouge program and the Westland Historical Commission were recipients of the Hall of Fame award.

■ Canton Township and the 1988 NCHA Steering Committee of Belleville were recipients of the Small Michigan Plaque for efforts there.

■ Friends of the Westland Historical Museum is the recipient of the Distinguished Service plaque.

■ Westland City Council and the Spirit of Westland also received Distinguished Service certificates.

REPAIRING TUBAL CAUSES OF INFERTILITY

By Maria F. Hayes, M.D.

(Recently Dr. Hayes talked about the reasons why a couple might be unable to conceive, and the diagnostic tests available to discover specific reasons for each couple's infertility. This week she discusses the treatment for obstructed or damaged fallopian tubes.)

The fallopian tube is the site of fertilization of the egg by the sperm. Between 25 and 35 percent of women evaluated for infertility are found to have damaged or obstructed fallopian tubes. Pelvic infection, endometriosis, scarring from other abdominal surgery, and sterilization procedures can all cause this damage.

PRE-OPERATIVE EVALUATION

Before surgery to repair tubal damage, testing is done to determine the chances of success. Included in this is a hysterosalpingogram, the placing of dye in the uterine cavity under X-ray observation to see how far into the fallopian tube the dye is able to pass. Also necessary is a semen analysis to evaluate the woman's husband. Finally, a laparoscopy is usually done so the surgeon may visually examine the fallopian tubes.

The amount of damage to the tubes and the amount of normal tube remaining will help to predict the outcome of repair. The information gathered is presented to the patient so that she may decide whether she would like to have the surgery.

SURGICAL OPTIONS

One of two types of surgery may be recommended to the patient. With either, a laser may be used.

- Tubal microsurgery — used for most tubal repairs. An abdominal incision of three to four inches is required. The patient usually remains in the hospital for three days and off of work for three to six weeks, but returns to her normal activity gradually.
- Laparoscopic surgery — useful in cases of adhesions, endometriosis, or scar tissue around the tubes, or blockage at the ends. Smaller incisions are made for the insertion of special operating instruments.

THE RATE OF SUCCESS

More than half the women who have undergone sterilization procedures and who have four centimeters of fallopian tube remaining can become pregnant after surgical repair. For women who have had pelvic infection or endometriosis, the rate of success depends on the amount of damage, and may be between 20 and 70 percent.

For women whose fallopian tubes bear damage too great for repair, in vitro fertilization is offered. This will be discussed further in a future column.

Michigan Week festival planned

The Romulus Michigan Week Festival Committee will conduct a public meeting Monday, Oct 17, at the Romulus Library Meeting Room. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at which time those in attendance will be given the opportunity to get acquainted with what the committee does and also to give citizens the chance to ask questions and give suggestions.

Search begins for top citizen

The ninth annual Romulus Person of the Year, is being sought by the Romulus Chamber of Commerce. The only criteria for the nominee is that they be someone who has made a significant contribution to the community. The individual will be honored at an awards banquet March 3, 1989 at the Holiday Inn.

Nomination forms are available at the chamber office, 35350 Goddard.

For more information, call 941-5710. The nomination deadline is Dec. 1.

Seniors plan for Christmas

The Romulus Senior Center has planned a "Hometown Christmas" trip to Lima, Ohio, for Dec. 1.

The trip will be offered to any interested seniors for a fee of $27.50 and is designed to get seniors in the Christmas spirit.

Sign up sheets are available at the center now and available spots are not expected to last long.

Education and business unite

The Michigan Partnerships for Education program invites those interested in building a better relationship between schools and their communities to participate in various activities sponsored by the group.

The program is designed to join businesses and schools in an exchange of ideas, expertise and human resources.

For more information, call Ed Clark at Romulus Community Education, 941-0610.

Builders Alliance progam funded

Next year the state budget will include funding for a pilot program for the Neighborhood Builders Alliance.

The progam will provide young adult with minimum wage jobs in neighborhood general improvement projects.

The program will be centered on major urban areas in the state, but will be reviewed to determine if the alliance can be implemented statewide.

Approval given for arson control

A new legislative program will help local fire authorities identify and prosecute people engaged in arson for profit.

The statewide arson investigators will lead complete investigations of all suspicious fires.

The program would also facilitate information-sharing between fire officials and insurance companies, which will help identify patterns of suspected arson-for-profit and also help to speed investigations and lead to more successful prosecutions.

Romulus Civil Air Patrol member saves child's life

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus man was honored with the Civil Air Patrol Certificate of Recognition for Lifesaving at the CAP Michigan Wing Conference last week.

Ed L. Dezomits, a long-time resident of Romulus and a member of the Civil Air Parol, saved the life of 2-year-old Courtney Podgil who was choking on her tongue due to convulsions.

The small girl, her mother Angela Podgil, and another passenger were in the car when the small girl started having convulsions.

> "It is fortunate that it happened in front of our house because rescue units took six minutes to arrive.
> — Ed L. Dezomits
> Romulus resident

Neither the mother nor the other passenger were trained in CPR or the Heimlich maneuver.

The mother jumped out of the car and started screaming for help, Dezomits who was having dinner on his back porch, heard the commotion and came out to help.

He administered a modified version of the Heimlich maneuver and CPR to restore the child's breathing.

"When I got there I could see that no one knew what to do. So I rushed over and grabbed the baby," Dezomits said.

"He new exactlly what he was doing," Angela said.

"It is fortunate that it happened in front of our house because rescue units took six minutes to arrive," Dezomits said.

At the ceremony Dezomits was lauded for his heroic behavior and quick thinking during a stressful emergency.

Angela knows nothing about lifesaving techniques, but has vowed to remedy that soon.

"My family and I know nothing about the procedure that he performed, but we intend on learning more about it in the near future," she said.

Dezomits has been a member of the Civil Air Patrol, the volunteer auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, since 1965.

CAP is known for its emergency and disaster relief work, and its aerospace education and youth motivation programs.

Dezomits currently serves on the staff of the Enterprise Group IV, which serves Wayne, Washtenaw, Lenawee and Jackson counties.

Students Against Driving Drunk host pep rally

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus High School Chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk will sponsor a pep rally Oct. 20 in an effort to gain new membership as well as inform the student body about the effects of driving drunk.

The group does not advocate never drinking, but stresses the importance of not drinking when driving.

"We are not asking people to stop drinking but we are asking that they not drive while drunk," said Stacie Brown, a sophomore involved in the program.

Members of SADD look forward to using the pep assembly as a way of informing the students about things going on in the group.

Most of the people here don't really know what we are up to or what an industrious group we have, said Jacque Martin-Downs, advisor to the students.

The pep assembly will include speeches from group members as well as skits depicting the dangers of drunken driving and how it affects not only those direclty involved but also how it affects family, teachers, and friends as well.

Disc-jockey Michael J. Fox will make a special guest appearance at the rally. He will speak on the dangers of driving drunk.

Many of the group members came together at a leadership camp last year where they decided to form the SADD chapter on their own.

"We want as many people as possible to get involved," said Albert Harris, a freshman at the high school and chairman of the SADD group.

"They are an incredibly motivated group of young people," said Barbara Reynold who also acts as adviser to the group.

Head Start to launch balloons

By EVON SAJKOVIC
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Head Start will sponsor a balloon launch this week in celebration of National Head Start Awareness Month.

The balloon will be launched at 10 a.m. tomorrow from the corner of Beverly and Wayne roads in Romulus.

The Head Start program in Romulus is two years old and concentrates on the development and education of the young child, said Cathy Thiede, parent coordinator for Head Start.

The program also educates parents about nutrition and health education by providing trips to the health center, the library and also by inviting experts to speak on topics such as dental health and CPR.

Recipients of the benefits provided by Head Start are single parent or low income families, according to Thiede.

"But we concentrate on the small child and those ways that we can benefit him or her because they are the future," she said.

At Head Start 3- to 4-year-olds are taught critical thinking and socialization through play acting while also teaching the parents basic parenting skills and helping those who need other types of training.

"We are trying to break the bonds of poverty through education, we want to give those involved in the program good feelings right from the beginning," said Pat Donald, child developement specialist, education coordinator.

"We are going strong and would like to encourage those interested in the program to contact us," Donald said.

More information about the program or enrollment is available by calling the Head Start center at 729-7515.

businesses much money to prepare," Clark said. "Businesses often need training programs and we, as formal educators, are very good at this," Clark said.

Economic survival is also one of the effects the task force hopes to generate throughout the community.

"The survival of our schools means the survival of our businesses," Clark said.

He also pointed out that a new curriculum should be addressed in order to plan ahead for the future.

"In order to plan ahead we need to plan for the future, no one is more adept to tell us what we need to do then the businesses of our community," Clark said.

"It has to start somewhere, we can not change things over night but if we start now our positive actions may trickle down," he said.

Advocates of the program hope it will eventually bring new businesses and families to the community and improve the image of the school system.

"Either you pay now or you pay later, we want to get a head start now," Clark said.

Health

"We may not need to have a health center but it is one of our considerations," said Conway, the project director.

Critics of the teen health centers, including the Christian Action Committee, believe that school-based teen health centers are not accountable to parents or the school board and may therefore get involved in counseling teens on issues of sex and may even distribute birth control devices.

"If anything we are more accountable because we are directly involved with parents and schools," Conway said. "We can't do anything without the school board, they have to approve all of our policies and the centers, if picked, would require written parental consent before any treatment could begin."

Even if a health center was implemented, birth control would not have to be a part of it, Conway said.

Should advisory committee members decide to recommend a teen health center the final decision will have to come from the board of education.

"We haven't gotten to the point where we are ready to make a recommendation," Conway said.

disaster site and determine which "patients" are most severely injured. Once the victims have been stabilized they will be transported to surrounding hospitals.

Evaluators trained in rendering emergency care will be at the site to observe and prepare critique reports. Evaluators will also be at each hospital to assess the performances of the hospital staff treating the injured.

Railroad police will reroute train traffic away from this area during the drill. Local police will stop taffic on Hunt between Annapolis and Van Born roads.

The only exceptions will be emergency vehicles coming to transport victims as well as some local traffic that will turn off before they reach the drill site.

Coordinators of the drill admit that this scenario is highly dramatized. This, they say, is done to justify the numbers of victims needed to test the many agencies involved in the exercise.

The two members of the Romulus Fire Department to participate in the procedure will be notified in advance but will not know all of the details of the exercise.

"Because our firefighters work on a volunteer basis we needed to notify them of the exercise, but we did throw in a few curves, all of the particulars of such an exercise are never known," said LeDuc.

A railroad spokesman said that although every precaution is taken to make these crossings safe and uneventful, the element of human error or failure of physical health are always a possiblity.

"We hope and pray that a tragedy like this never happens, but it is good to know we have such a concerted effort and practiced procedure among hospitals and civil agencies to respond to the need," say representatives of the Chessie Railroad System.

Participants in the exercise will be trated to hamburgers and french fries after the drill.

Parents seek answers

"Someone is getting away with murder" is the belief of the grieving parents of a young woman whose 1983 death was surrounded by a series of puzzling circumstances and unanswered questions, questions the parents hope can be answered by Romulus- or Belleville-area residents.

Five years ago the death of Van Buren Township resident Carol Ann Routzon, 34, was ruled a suicide and the case was closed – by everyone other than her parents, who believe foul play was involved in their daughter's death.

Paul and Marjorie Duchin are continuing their five-year battle to re-open the investigation into the death of their daughter, Carol Ann Routzon, on May 21, 1983. The Duchins, now living in the East Huron River Drive home where their daughter died, have accumulated a thick binder full of correspondence and reports to document the theory that their daughter's death was not a suicide.

"We're not pointing the finger at a suspect. That is the job of the police," Duchin said. "All we want is to have the case reopened and properly investigated."

The death of the 34-year-old divorcee was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning in a report issued by Wayne County Coroner Dr. Werner Spitz, who noted that she had a .83 carbon monoxide blood reading and a .10 alcohol count. Her lifeless body was discovered inside her car in the garage attached to her home by a live-in babysitter.

Dukakis tours area incinerator

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis Monday presented area students with a message of a drug-free America, as he burned confiscated drugs at the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority incinerators, in Dearborn Heights.

The incinerators are used to burn the solid wastes for the member communities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Garden City and Dearborn Heights.

Dukakis was the guest of Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and his deputies. The incinerator is used by county sheriffs as a disposal site for confiscated drugs.

Tonya Rutledge, of Romulus High School, and Matthew Rodgers, of Inkster, were two students selected to help Dukakis throw several boxes of drugs into the huge furnace.

Rutledge and Rodgers, both seniors, are active members of student government at the respective high schools.

Prior to the drug burning, approximately 200 students were on hand to hear a few words from the presidential hopeful. Students from Westland, Romulus, Inkster, Livonia and Berkley were invited to participate in the invitation-only rally.

Many of the students present were participants in school support groups and recovery programs.

Dukakis spoke of supply and demand. He told students that, as president, he would take measures to cut the supply of drugs. He added that it was partially the students' responsibility to end the demand for drugs.

"It's not just a question of just saying 'no,' " Dukakis said.

He suggested, as he has in the past, that drug education be offered in all schools beginning in first grade. He implemented a similar program in the state of Massachusetts, where he is governor.

He also talked of his commitment to have more young people trained as peer counselors to help friends and classmates overcome the pressures to try drugs and to overcome drug habits.

Students applauded and cheered the candidate.

Dukakis' stay in Wayne County was a brief one. His plane arrived at Detroit Metro Airport at approximately 4 p.m. He was set to leave again by 6 p.m.

Many local dignitaries were on hand for Dukakis' visit, as well as representatives of various Democratic organizations.

Members of the John Glenn High School band, of Westland, were on hand at the airport when Dukakis arrived. They had been invited by Dukakis' wife, Kitty.

'Victory'

Newspaper lawsuit spurs restaged meeting

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Associated Newspapers officials are claiming a victory, after members of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority Board of Directors restaged a contested meeting Thursday.

PCHA board members agreed to restage the May 26 board meeting, after the newspaper group filed a lawsuit, charging the hospital authority with violating the Michigan Open Meetings Act. The meeting was restaged during the monthly board meeting.

During the May 26 meeting, PCHA board members approved an affiliation agreement with Oakwood Health Services Corp., 27-0.

During the restaged meeting Thursday, PCHA board members approved the affiliation agreement, 22-5.

The Associated Newspapers filed a lawsuit Aug. 22, charging the PCHA with violating the Open Meetings Act. The suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, charged the hospital authority with noncompliance of the Open Meetings Act by closing a portion of a May 26 special board meeting to the public.

"We were very concerned about the propriety of what we did. Our attorney and their (the newspaper) attorney have reached an agreement, " said PCHA Chairman Donald Pizzimenti to PCHA board members, at the Thursday meeting. "I would like to proceed and remind the board that, at the (May 26) meeting, no decisions were made. Mr. (Fred) Blair (PCHA chief executive officer) and Mr. (B. Ward) Smith (PCHA attorney) reviewed the general content of the agreement. We felt it was privileged information at that point and not to be released to the public.

"For the purpose of setting aside the legal concern we have, we will attempt to go back through that meeting (of May 26). We will go through it on a page-by-page basis, explaining what the contract meant," Pizzimenti said to the board members.

Associated Newspapers attorney Dawn Phillips said she is pleased with the decision to restage the contested meeting.

"What we wanted to accomplish in this case was openness in government, especially on an issue of such emergency as this that would affect the public," Phillips said. "It is especially important here because many of the members of this board are members of other boards.

"It is a reminder to everyone of the importance of open government. It was shown at the meeting Thursday that the affiliation agreement could be discussed at an open meeting without adverse effects," Phillips continued.

The newspaper lawsuit had asked for a preliminary injunction against the PCHA, prohibiting it from becoming a private entity and from affiliating with Oakwood, until the May 26 meeting was publicly restaged. The suit also asked that all decisions made during the May 26 meeting be made invalid and that a permanent injunction be entered until the meeting was restaged.

Under state law, the restaging of the contested meeting satisfies requirements of the Open Meetings Act. However, admission of fault is not required when the meeting is restaged.

This week, Day called the case a "victory" for the rights of the public.

"This clearly is a tremendous victory for the rights of the public in relation to an open form of government," Day said. "It is unfortunate that it took a lawsuit to encourage PCHA officials to comply with the Michigan Open Meetings Act. But we are happy that our stance in protecting public rights has been made clear.

"We have said it before, and we will say it again: This newspaper will not accept violations of the law by public bodies. It is the interest of the readers we serve that we have taken such a position, and protecting the rights of the public is an important part of our job as a newspaper," Day said.

Newspaper officials now plan to formally dismiss the lawsuit.

Hospital reorganization now under way

The gears are now in motion for a restructuring of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority. PCHA board members, at a monthly meeting Thursday, approved an agreement with the law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone to assist hospital officials in development and implementation of plans to defease outstanding bonds.

The bonds must be defeased – paid off or payments placed in an escrow account – before the restructuring can take place, according to legislation passed this year. PCHA is restructuring from the current public status to private, nonprofit.

PCHA owns and operates five hospitals in western Wayne County and the Downriver area, including Annapolis, in Wayne, and Beyer Memorial, in Ypsilanti.

Burning issue

Waste forum stresses incineration

Environmentalists from western Wayne County joined individuals from several groups and organizations to take the first step in developing a unified plan for waste management strategies during an incineration conference staged in Wayne.

Van Buren Township Waste Management Director Edward Dalhagen termed the conference as "the first effort to pull together the various environmental groups" to work out a feasible solution to the solid waste disposal problems facing all of them.

Delhagen said he believes it is important to have input from all of those who will affected by innovations in the solid waste disposal area.

"In the past, those making the decisions did not seem to be concerned with input from the surrounding communities," Delhagen said. "This is the first step."

The waste management director believes the incinerator program could be approached in a different manner, "by first reducing wastes and recycling and then looking at incineration."

Delhagen said he has concerns about where the 700 tons of ash, which is expected to be generated daily from the Detroit incinerator, will be placed. He also said questions about the hazards present in the ash have not been answered. For example, Delhagen said, some studies show that dioxins can be formed in the incineration process while others state that the process can render them harmless.

The Sept. 24 all-day conference, which was conducted in the Wayne County Intermediate School District auditorium, drew environmentalists from throughout the county and outstate communities.

Focus on the conference was to build a statewide and regional network of community activists – linked to national and international environmental organizations – to serve as an instrument for developing waste management policies.

The conference speakers questioned the feasibility of the trash incinerator, which is slated to begin operations in Detroit by mid-1989. According to sponsors of the event, Detroit officials currently have no location where they can dump the toxic ash which, environmentalists say, will be contaminated with lead, cadmium and other pollutants.

A report by the Toxic Substance Council Control Commission, a watchdog agency, has termed trash burners as "expensive" and "inefficient." When all costs are calculated, according to the report, "recycling becomes economically competitive with burning or burying trash."

Drawbacks to incineration, the report said, are the high cost of construction, operation and maintenance plus landfill disposal costs which are expected to skyrocket in the future. The report also noted that incinerators need a constant supply of wastes, which creates a self-perpetuating demand for trash that harms efforts to reduce or recycle wastes.

Dr. Richard Denison of the Environmental Defense Fund, Sally Teets of the Citizens Clearinghouse for Hazardous Waste and Mark Lohbauer of Stop Incineration Now, were featured speakers at the conference.

$150 million federal grant will aid Rouge, Supersewer

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Perhaps the most crucial question of all concerning the Rouge River cleanup and Supersewer project was answered Saturday during a press conference at Nankin Mills, in Westland.

At the meeting, it was announced that nearly $150 million in federal grants have been awarded for cleanup efforts of the Rouge River. The monies will come from the federal Environmental Protection Egency.

U.S. Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) made the announcement with Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

The money will be used to construct the new Supersewer, designed to prevent wastewater overflow from polluting the Rouge River and tributaries. Three counties are involved in the project, and the grants will be shared.

Wayne County will receive $34.7 million during the next five years for Supersewer projects, according to Barbara Rickert, press secretary for McNamara.

A check for the first installment of $8 million will be in hand soon.

The grant represents less than one-half of the total cost of sewer improvements in Wayne County. Total cost of the project in Wayne County is estimated at $78.2 million.

The estimated cost to residents will be an additional $2 to $3 per household per month, Rickert said.

Negotiations concerning the proposed Supersewer project and the federal government contribution have been ongoing for the past 17 years. This is the first concrete step toward beginning the project.

Hale Creek students assist in hurricane food campaign

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Students at Hale Creek Elementary in Romulus have stretched out a helping hand to Jamaicans hard hit by Hurricane Gilbert.

Since the hurricane struck the island, students at the school have joined together and collected food for the families, according to Arthur McPharlin, principal of the school.

Rosaleen Kirk and her fifth grade class coordinated the food drive at the school and collected more than 1,000 pieces of food.

"Jamaica was chosen by the students because the students had been reading that this place was the hardest hit during the hurricane," McPharlin said. "Plus, she (Rosaleen Kirk) was a Peace Corp. volunteer in Jamaica and she kind of considers it her mother country."

Concern for the people of Jamaica came when students began reading about the hurricane and the damage it left behind. Immediately they wanted to help, McPharlin said.

"The response has been great. It's really hard to say how many pounds of food (were sent) but there were about 1,000 food pieces," McPharlin said.

Students and staff donated non-perishable food items to the drive. Once collected in the individual classrooms, the foor items were delivered to Kirk's class.

Students counseled in peer-influence plan

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus High School students who don't feel comfortable talking to their parents about problems, can discuss their feelings with special peer counselors.

The Positive Peer Influence program, in its second year at the school, provides counseling for students in need. The program is unique because it is run entirely by students, according to Mike Zaher, adviser to the program.

Last year, peer counselors in the program advised between 175 and 200 students with different problems. The rate of succes for helping the students was amazing, Zaher said.

The counselors were chosen by school advisers for the program.

"These are students that are respected by their peers. Our kids try to give the students as much positive assistance as they can," Zaher said. "The kids don't deal so much with the personal problems, but more with school-related problems. If they need some other kind of counseling, then we refer them to somebody else."

The student counselors meet one hour each day and are available for any student who comes in voluntarily to discuss their problems. All information gathered in the room from the discussions is kept confidential, Zaher explained.

Counseling is not done on a one-on-one basis. Rather several peer counselors will listen to a student's problem and together they will try to solve it.

"A lot of the problems were agressive types of problems. And the success rate of helping them was great. We create a non-threatening environment for these kids. We hope they're sitting in the seat of concern," Zaher said.

The "seat of concern" refers to the formation in which the counselors place their seats to make discussion easier.

The two advisers for the program, Zaher and Maxine Reed, play a fairly passive role in the sessions, Zaher said.

When a student enters the room for counseling, Zaher said the student has the choice of whether to have males, females or both as counselors.

"We have it designed so they can have who they want to talk with. But, we'll still do a group. If I had a guy come in and he wanted to talk to a male, I would put him with 10 boys in a setting. We really steer the kids away from being personal counselors. It's the whole group that helps in the process. If somebody came up to one of them in the hall and asked for advice, that person would be acting on their own, and we really want to have the whole group in on the decisions," Zaher said.

The long-range goal of the program, he said, would be to make the school a better place and make students more responsible people.

"We are giving the kids a responsibility in the setting. It is the students' and our responsibility to make the students as comfortable as they can be in there.

"One great thing though, is that we see that the kids do care. They come in and see our students as calm, nonthreatening and a good environment," Zaher said.

Opinion

The burning issue is our only choice

Attention foes, opponents and others against incineration: If you can find a better solution to our solid-waste woes, tell us. Tell us all.

County and local officials joined forces recently to plot their strategies for dealing with solid waste. One official dubbed the event "the first effort to pull together the various environmental groups" to develop a feasible solution to the solid-waste disposal problems facing the area.

We applaud that statement and those efforts.

At the same time , however, others have joined their own forces to act as opponents to incineration and the burning form of solid-waste disposal. One Detroit group of lawyers has even launched a campaign to halt efforts in the city of Detroit to build an incinerator there.

Such a roadblock in the way of incineration, we believe, is short-sighted and self-defeating. It must be stopped.

Clearly, opponents of incineration must look to a solid-waste dilemma facing Wayne County. By the year 2000, county officials say, residents will have no landfills to dump and bury their wastes.

County officials recognized the increasing problem of solid-waste disposal by developing a master plan earlier this year. In the plan, all Wayne County communities must reduce dependency on landfills by the year 2000 and find alternate methods of waste reduction.

We lauded that master plan when it was introduced and continue to praise such wisdom by county lawmakers in foreseeing and dealing with future societal concerns.

Opponents of incineration must also look to the very successful Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority, in Dearborn Heights. The more than 25-year-old facility has served the communities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Garden City and Dearborn Heights well. In fact, residents in those five communities have few worries about how they will deal with solid-waste disposal next year – or in the year 2000.

Solid waste is, indeed, not a glamorous topic or an issue on which most would debate. It also is an issue most of us fail to take seriously.

Nevertheless, we laud efforts by county and local officials to begin stepped-up efforts to place the entire area "on line" to incineration. We also urge those who oppose this burning method of waste reduction to reconsider their stance – and reconsider the real facts.

Incineration is the only logical solution we, as a society, have to the problem of waste disposal. Landfills are an idea of the past. We know that.

But what we don't know is an alternative to incineration – an alternative that will be effective in solving the solid-waste problem. If those who are so vehemently opposing these incinerators have an alternative, we are willing to listen.

And if they don't have an alternative, we expect their support of a plan we know will work – incineration.

Open government wins

We're calling it a victory. A victory for you, our readers and the citizens of this land.

The victory we speak of is the Associated Newspapers successful attempt to see that a May 26 meeting of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority was restaged. It took a lawsuit to attain that goal, but the results were well worth all of our efforts.

The May 26 PCHA meeting, we believe, was staged in direct violation of the Michigan Open Meetings Act. Board members met on that day for more than two hours to discuss an affiliation agreement with Oakwood Health Services Corp. Despite the two-hour meeting, only 20 minutes of the event was open to the public.

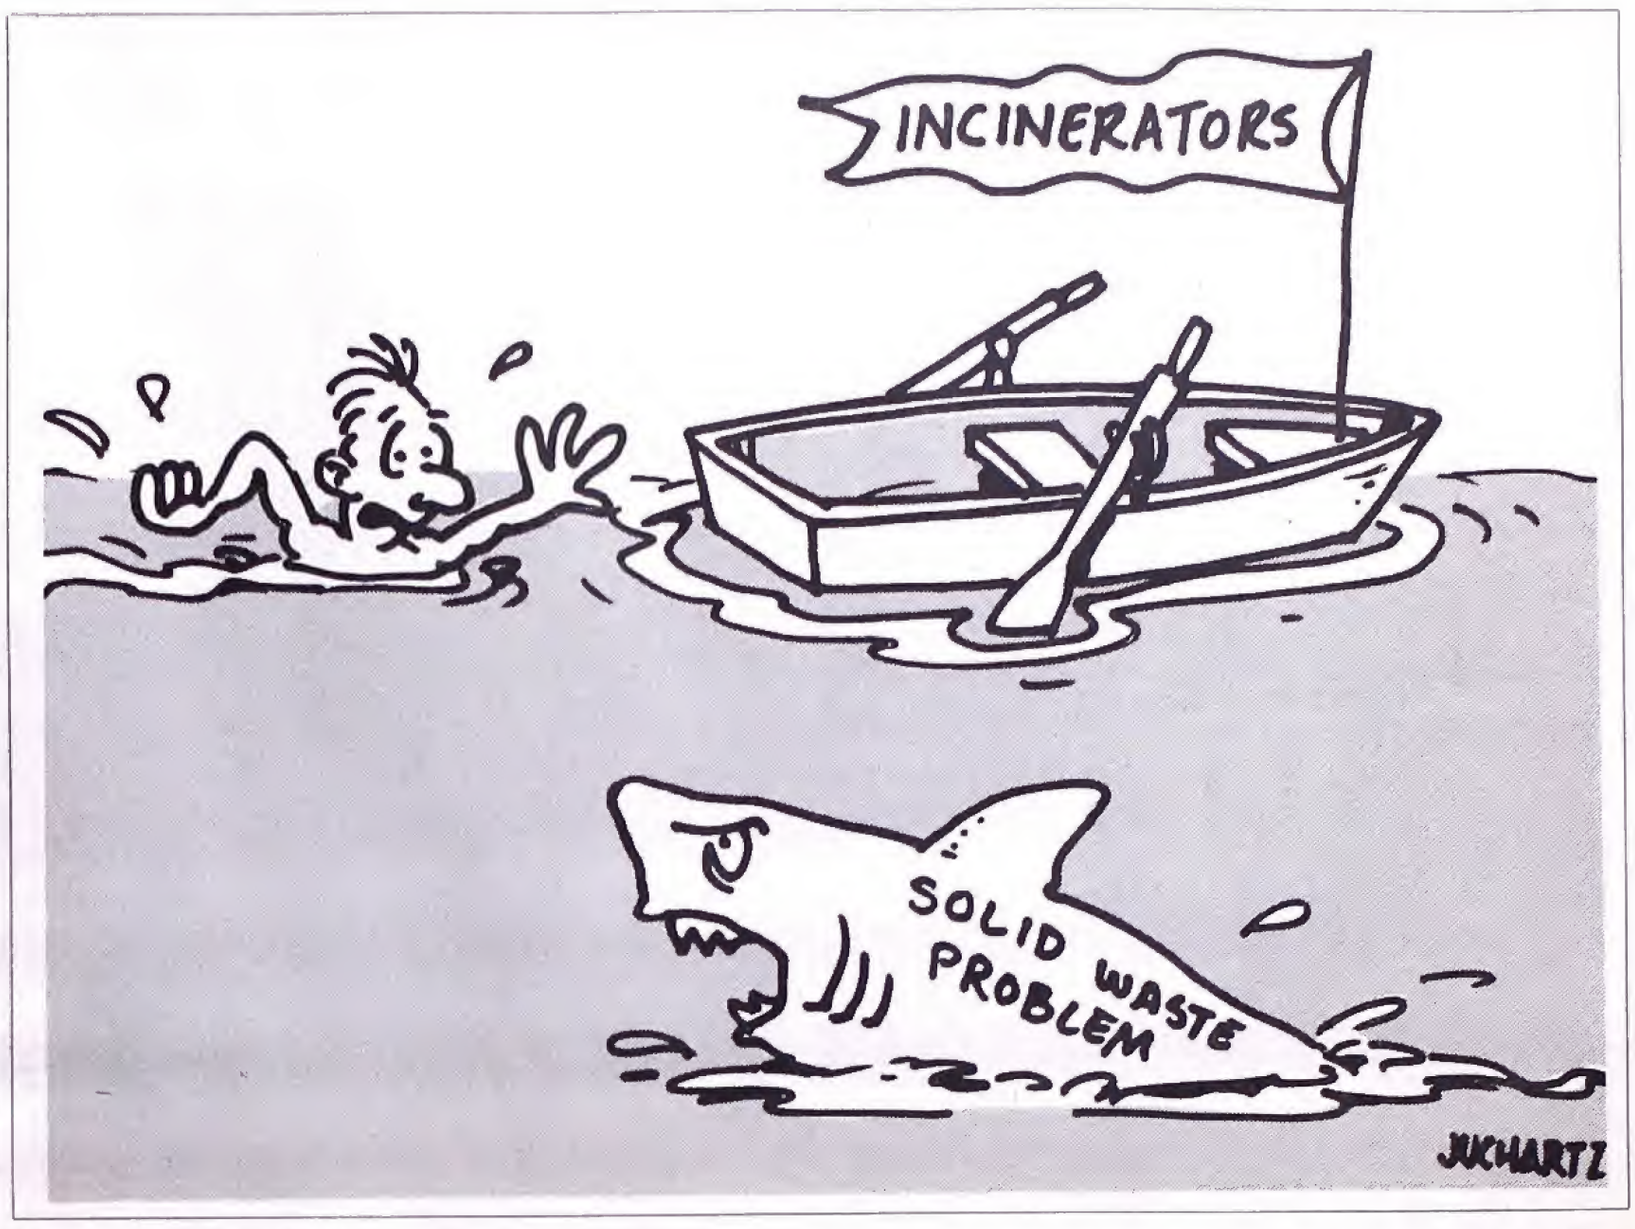
We asked PCHA officials to voluntarily restage the meeting. They refused. We then filed a lawsuit asking that all decisions made during that meeting be voided, since the closed meeting was staged in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

Last Thursday, the May 26 PCHA meeting was restaged. Our lawsuit was settled, and the case now becomes history.

But the principle behind this fight will not soon be forgotten.

As your newspaper, we hold fast to a code of ethics and a code of professional character. In that code, we subscribe to the belief that the rights of the public – our readers – should be protected at all costs.

In the PCHA lawsuit, we believe we have protected the rights of the public. We believe we have done our job.



Teen health clinic lacks parental input

It appears that the matter of school-based health clinics for Romulus has been more than introduced to the school board, and extensive effort has been exerted by the proponents to emphasize the need for such a clinic.

It doesn't appear that the opposing view has been presented. If it has, it has been down played.

I am seriously concerned that, after the existing grant for the installation of the clinic has been used, maintenance costs will come from our tax dollars – either via the Michigan Department of Public Health or the Wayne County Health Department – or millage increases, although we have been assured otherwise.

Since the need and purpose of these clinics is of such controversial nature, it will seriously affect our ability to get future proposals passed.

Also, even though we have assurances that contraceptive and abortion counseling would not be provided to our students, in accordance with state laws, we have absolutely not way of policing these items, and enforcing them would involve legal hassles, testimony of students and "proof," which would be impossible to obtain.

Students' rights to privacy would prevent parental notification.

Experience with existing clinics shows that parental consent forms not only have loopholes in them but authorize medical treatment for the student (aspirin or birth-control pills or abortion).

letters

Treatment can be denied if the form is not signed.

So, parents sign the form without even reading the fine print.

"Referrals" are a big part of the program. So, even though "dispensing" of contraceptives or abortions are prohibited for the school, referrals are not. Who can guarantee where our kids are being referred?

If our kids are referred for birth-control pills and abortions and, subsequently, sue for damages resulting, can the school board members and clinic operators and nurses be named as defendants?

Meeting attendance is costly for city

I was disgusted to read about the council approving the request by the commissioners to attend the National Recreation and Parks Association Congress at $800 per commissioner. Where is the city getting the money?

I thought the city was working on a tight budget. When I work on a tight budget, I can't find $800 or $8 to give out, no matter what the cause.

It's time someone at the city took a closer look at our budget. Every week, it's something. A few weeks ago, we read that the city needed a full-time probation officer but could not afford it. We were on a tight budget.

The next week, we read that they hired a full-time probation suddenly get the money for not only one, but two, positions?

Please tell us, because we don't know how to expand our budget this way – to be able to spend money when there is none.

I would hope the city takes a closer look at the budget and not keep spending, spending, spending when there is no money. We will soon be bankrupt.

Volunteer criticism blasted by parents

I'm not sure if I should feel outraged or betrayed. I read your front-page article of Sept. 28 (The Canton Eagle), saying the Plymouth-Canton school district aides are considering a grievance because too many parents are volunteering to work in classrooms and, allegedly, are "taking jobs away" from the aides.

The parents of the students in the Plymouth-Canton schools have consistently taken pride in their volunteerism and active support of their children and their schools.

With the recent millage defeats, we must face reality. There is no money to fund certain positions. The parents understand this predicament. What we are seeing is an increase in commitment to live up to the responsibilities of quality education.

Mrs. Harrington, president of the aides' union, appears to have such little regard for the welfare of the school system that she threatens to take this situation to the Michigan employment relations commission.

The constant confrontation and lack of cooperation between the school staff, administrators and teachers will, predictably, reduce the Plymouth-Canton schools to a state of bare mediocrity.

Inkster judge race not black and white

Once again, the issue of race or color has come into the center of the 22nd District Court race. I can speak on this topic, due to the fact lat, last November, I ran for city councilman in Inkster.

"I was the token white."

I'm glad to see the Rev. Larry Hines tell us that Michigan Supreme Court Justice Dennis Archer is black and that Pat O'Neil is white and that Tom Mooradian is white.

Justice Archer got to where he is because of hard work and honesty, not because of his race.

Rev. Hines, why do people have to pick a side, as you say? Let's vote for the person who can do the best job on the bench in Inkster.

Romulus wrestling coach resigns

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Schimming, the winningest wrestling coach in Romulus High School history, resigned last week.

Schimming, 44, who guided the Eagles to consecutive South Central Conference championships the past two years, informed athletic director Fred Coleman that he would not be returning to the team for the 1988-89 season.

Contacted by telephone on Sunday, Schimming confirmed that he had submitted his resignation and elaborated. "I'd like to spend more time with my family, and I have two sons who also like to wrestle, so I will be paying more attention to their careers."

Schimming's eldest son, Ryan, is a freshman at Monroe High; Aaron, 11, is in junior high.

Schimming has been the wrestling coach at Romulus for the past 13 years. Last year the Eagles compiled a 13-2 overall record in winning the SCC title. They also finished among the top 10 teams at the Class A state championships.

Last year's club also produced such notables as Tony Venturini, a 98-pounder who captured the state crown in 1988 while finishing second a year ago. Heavyweight Paul Nowicki, who will form the nucleus of what is expected to be another outstanding Romulus team this year, placed fourth a year ago.

Schimming has a masters in Physical Education and will continue to teach at the high school.

Wayne and his wife, Donna, and children make their home in Monroe.

Although the Romulus Board of Education hasn't acted upon the Schimming resignation, the resignation will not be official until they do so. Assistant Coach Norm Butler is the top candidate to step into the vacancy, again pending board approval.

Robichaud wins 'a big one'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Robichaud has finally taken control of its own football destiny.

Coach Bob Yauck and his Bulldogs can thank the defense and a 6-0 victory Friday over River Rouge that lifted them into sole possession of first place in the Suburban Athletic Conference. Rouge last year was the benefactor of a Willow Run upset of Robichaud that forced the Bulldogs to share with the Panthers the 1987 crown.

The two undefeated SAC teams met Friday in Dearborn Heights to decide who'll continue to stay atop of the hill. And it took a last quarter Tyrone Wheatley touchdown to settle the issue.

Missing from the Robichaud lineup since injuring his ankle in the season opener, Tyrone Wheatley's (with ball) return to the backfield paid off Friday. Wheatley's lone TD was the decisive score in the duel between Robichaud and Rouge, the two previously undefeated SAC teams.

Wheatley, missing from the Robichaud lineup since sustaining a knee injury in the season-opener at Saline, was sparely used Friday as a fullback. He was switched to tailback late in the game, and sparks began to fly.

Until the, the unproductive Robichaud offense sputtered, stalled and was stopped by an equally determined Rouge defense until late in the fourth quarter.

"I knew we were going to be in the thick of a defensive battle," Yauck commented afterwards. "We just haven't been putting the points on the board this year. I think we all realize that we were fortunate to come away with the win.

"And from our perspective, this was a championship game because I really don't see anyone else knocking them (Rouge) off. This was a big one for us."

The series that broke it open for the Bulldogs, ironically, started off with Rouge's John Jackson picking off an Eric Thomas pass inside the Bulldog 30 as the whistle blew to end the third quarter.

But the Panthers immediately gave up the ball via an interception by Wheatley at his own 4-yard line. Thomas just couldn't get the offense going and the Bulldogs punted away.

Robichaud immediately got another break when Tim Parker, an all-area tackle a year ago, recovered a fumble at the 36.

Thomas broke loose on a 15-yard jaunt, then Wheatley got his chance, and picked up 12. After Carl Brown moved the ball to the 13, Wheatley was given another try, and he managed to find a hole and bolted through for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

The TD capped a seven-play drive.

Parker, along with Carl Selman, Roderick James and middle linebacker Gary Johnson, shared in the credit of containing Rouge's speedy ballcarriers who were held to 25 plays and 38 yards rushing. And outside linebacker Toby Griffin finished with four solos, including a sack of the QB, and three assists.

Although Robichaud is in the driver's seat, they can be ousted if they don't see the obstacle on the road ahead in the form of Highland Park. The Parkers are riding the crest of a 44-0 victory over Inkster and Yauck warns that the Polar Bears can be dangerous.

"I have scouted them three times," Yauck said, "and I feel that they have some of the best talent in the league. They're young and aggressive."

'Gutty' effort ends Tigers' losing streak

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

"It was a gutty and the most determined effort I have ever received from one of my teams since I have taken over the team."

That's how Belleville coach Dave McCarney summed up the Tigers' come-from-behind 14-7 triumph over Southgate Anderson Friday night.

The victory snapped a three-game Belleville losing streak and set up Friday night's confrontation with Wayne Memorial. Wayne will be coming to town with an identical 1-3 conference and 2-3 overall record.

"They lost a close one to Fordson," said McCarney discussing the pending matchup between the two teams. "They have a lot of talent this year. They are fast, and rely on the big play. To offset that, we're going to have to work on our kicking game."

Southgate capitalized on a miscue late in the first quarter that lifted them to a 6-0 lead. A Belleville snap sailed over the Tiger punter's head and Southgate recovered the ball on the Belleville 30. Six plays later quarterback Butch Ludtke teamed up with Skinmore for a TD pass that deflected off of Belleville defender Maurice Brantley's hands.

Belleville came back in the second quarter and scored, then went ahead 7-6 on a halfback pass play which put Virgil Chandler in the role of passer. He connected on a 37-yarder to Kevin Hunter that caught the Anderson defenders napping. Then, Chad McCarney, the coach's son, booted his first of two extra points, jetting the Tigers into the lead.

Chandler, a 6-0, 170-pound senior, got his team an insurance touchdown in the last quarter as the Tigers marched 80 yards after a missed Anderson field goal (from 27 yards out). Chandler's TD preceded an earlier scoring jaunt that covered 65-yards, called back because of a clip.

Chandler finished the evening with 126 yards rushing on 21 carries plus the TD toss and run.

Belleville quarterback Jeremy Ison had one of his best games as he connected on five of eight passes for 90 yards. The Tigers gained 163 yards on the ground as compared to Anderson's 50. They also had 15 first downs to the loser's seven.

McCarney had plenty of praise this week for the offensive line which provided the path for Chandler's rushes. He also commended Anthony Martinez, who stepped in for the injured Jim Stamp, at left tackle and played an "outstanding game.". Mike Harding, a left guard, also earned accolades.

In other action involving Wolverine 'A' Conference teams, undefeated Fordson defeated Wayne 14-7; fourth-ranked state power, Monroe, turned back Trenton, 21-7, and Lincoln Park destroyed Wyandotte, 37-3.

Mistake-prone Huron loses again

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Mistake-prone New Boston Huron gave up 11 points in the third quarter to Flat Rock and dropped a 24.6 decision to their conference football rivals Friday night.

It was the fourth consecutive conference loss for Coach Tom Labeau's Chiefs, who haven't found their way into the winning column since beating Dearborn Heights Annapolis in the season nonconference opener Sept. 2.

"It's the same story - we cripple ourselves with our own mistakes," said Labeau whose team has another tough assignment on Saturday when they travel to Monroe St. Mary's. "We were in the game the first half (against Flat Rock), then they broke it open with 11 points in the third."

Flat Rock cashed in on the performance of senior quarterback Tim Snyder for two touchdowns as Snyder connected on six of 11 tosses for 119 yards. Leading 7-0 after the initial quarter, Flat Rock failed to stop the Chiefs after the ensuing kickoff.

Huron QB Pete Hill engineered a midfield drive that culminated with his one-yard touchdown run early in the second period.

But before the half ended, Matt Lowrey picked off a Hill pass and raced back 80 yards to the Chiefs' end zone to give the hosts the lead for good.

Huron paid dearly for their mental mistakes. The Chiefs were penalized nine times and, as Labeau put it: "Even good teams can't play over that many mistakes, let alone an erratic team as we are."

Matt Hamilton paced the Huron ballcarriers with 60 yards on 12 attempts and Hill picked up 58 yards on nine tries. He also completed seven of 20 passes for 73 yards. Flat Rock had a slight edge in first downs (13-11) and outrushed the Chiefs 175 to 142 yards.

Commenting on the Saturday 7:30 p.m. game with Monroe CC, Labeau noted that "they have a tendency to get better as the season matures.

"But we can beat them, if we don't first beat ourselves."

Decision time

Robichaud cagers (white jerseys) have Inkster boxed in on this play, but their Suburban Athletic Conference rivals managed to come out ahead, 65-27. The victory boosted Inkster's record to 5-3 on the year, while the Bulldogs are seeking their first win in seven starts. ANP photo by Paula J. Parkinson

Belleville, Fordson swim to the wire

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It went right down to the wire Thursday in the Wolverine 'A' Conference swim duel between Belleville and Fordson, and Belleville claimed a close 44-39 victory.

The victory kept the Tigers' winning streak intact. Coach Greg Cooper's girls are 4-0 on the season.

Belleville managed to pull out the victory over the Dearborn swimmers thanks to the freestyle relay team. Going into the final event, the Tigers held a slim 37-36 edge. Cooper selected Melanie Merritt, the Snure sisters - Rachel and Jenny - and Gina Montie who responded with the winning time of 4:12.7. Fordson's foursome posted a 4:17.5.

Merritt and Montie kept the Tigers in the race thanks to a pair of earlier wins. Merritt turned in a 2:15.4 in winning the 200-yard freestyle and she was clocked in 1:11.19 for a first place in the 100-yard butterfly.

Montie had a 27.70 for a victory in the 50-yard freestyle and a 59.90 performance won the 100-yard freestyle for the Tigers.

Belleville also carded a victory in the 200-yard individual medley as Jenny Snure turned in a 2:38.19 and her older sister, Rachel, churned a 6:01.24 in winning the 500-yard freestyle.

Cooper and his tankers will need their best if they are to stop Trenton from repeating as conference champ. They'll get a glimpse at the 1988 Trenton machine on Thursday.

"Trenton will definitely be a good test for us," Cooper said. "They are, after all, the defending champs and are picked to repeat this year.

"It should be an interesting meet," he added.

Tigers seeking swimmers

If you want your son or daughter to compete in the Olympics, you have to start them you.

And if you want them to be swimmers, the Belleville Tiger Swim Club is the place you'd want them to enroll.

Club officials announced last week that they are accepting registration from local residents, ages 6 to 18. There is a $45 registration fee.

For further information, contact Coach Greg Cooper at the Belleville High swim pool from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The number is 697-9494.

Inkster rolls past Bulldogs

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With guard Angie Thomas scoring nine of her game high 21 points in the first period, Inkster rolled to an unexpectedly easy 65-27 victory over natural rival, Robichaud, in a Suburban Athletic Conference girls' basketball game Thursday.

"It was easier than I thought it would be," said Inkster Coach Dwight Hotchkiss who recalled that previous encounters with the Bulldogs have "been close and down to the wire."

Inkster led 15-4 after one period and increased the margin to 31-11 as the half ended. The Vikings stretched their lead with a 19-6 and 15-10 scoring advantage in the final two periods.

Alexis Watson joined Thomas in the double figure scoring column as she tossed in 12. Watson also had 12 rebounds.

In a nonleague encounter, Inkster was left on the shortend of a 60-45 count with Ypsilanti as the Braves broke open a close game with a 19-8 advantage in the last eight minutes. Inkster held a 11-10 edge at the end of the first frame, defended their lead as the two teams both put 14-points on the scoreboard in the second period. However, the Braves took command with an 18-14 advantage in the third as Inkster missed miserably on their shots from the field.

One of the reasons why the Vikings couldn't match the Braves in the stretch was due to the injury to Ursula Harris who sustained an ankle injury midway in the third quarter. Harris is a doubtful starter for this week's games against Oak Park and River Rouge. The series has been labeled as crucial for the Vikings' quest for the SAC title.

In the meantime, New Boston Huron, the defending Huron Conference champ, came alive last week and drub-

Robichaud runners pick up 2 medals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Robichaud runners picked up two medals at the prestigious Wayne Memorial Invitational staged "down in the flats" Saturday morning.

Frank Hayes, the Bulldogs' number one runner throughout the early stages of the season, was clocked in the 17th-best time (18:22) and teammate Matt White finished 22nd (18:30) to earn medals. (The top 25 finishers were awarded medals.)

Coach Jim Hadley and his Bulldogs finished sixth in a field of 10 (with three nonshows), their best finish at the invitational which usually features some of the top runners in the state.

"This was out best finish," Hadley later commented. "I am kind of proud of these kids because they ran well against a field that included the Livonia schools and Wayne."

Livonia Stevenson, with 52 team points, won the team championship. The Spartans surfaced atop of a field that also included Trenton (79), Belleville (84), Livonia Franklin (91), Wayne Memorial (93), Robichaud (170), Garden City (186), Dearborn Heights Crestwood (188), Taylor Truman (224) and Romulus (287).

In the meantime, Robichaud's quest for the Suburban Athletic Conference crown suffered a setback as Highland Park upset the Bulldog harriers, 23-32. Robichaud went into the meet without the services of Hayes, who was sidelined with an injury.

The loss was the first for the Bulldogs in three league starts - their second in five overall outings.

The Parkers swept the first three spots as Perez Lanier covered the 5,000 kilometers in 18:11, followed by two of his teammates. The first Robichaud runner to cross the finish line was White, who had the fourth best time of 19:06. Bill Orsette and Robert Stewart were fifth (19:10) and sixth (19:22), respectively, for the Bulldogs while Phil Tachar and Francis Curto were eighth and ninth.

In previous meets, Robichaud defeated River Rouge 20-35.

Ypsi shuts out Romulus

Eagles remain winless

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Undefeated Ypsilanti used Romulus Friday to boost its stock in the Class A high school football ratings.

The Braves moved up to fifth-place in the state rankings after an easy 30-0 drubbing of the Eagles who, after five games, are still looking for their first victory of the 1988 campaign.

And it isn't going to get any easier for Coach Norb Glover and his team.

Romulus will travel to Ann Arbor Huron Friday afternoon to take on the league co-leaders. Kickoff is 5 p.m. The River Rats are enjoying a 4-1 overall (1-0 league) season. But they barely eluded upset-minded Adrian, a team which got a scare from Glover's cadre two weeks ago.

"I believe we can play with Huron and the rest of our schedule," said Glover whose lineup has been riddled with injuries. "If we can ever get our entire football team back (from the injuries) I think we will be alright down the stretch."

Scrambling to elude the outreached hand and tackle of an opponent, Romulus senior QB Robert Holt (white jersey) buys time. Holt and his Eagles had their problems against this Adrian team (above) and couldn't stop a heavily favored and undeafeated Ypsilanti team Friday afternoon. The Eagles hope to snap their five-game losing streak at the expense of Ann Arbor Huron, their next opponent. ANP photo by Chris Pandel/freelance photographer

Despite some heroics from senior linebacker Rick Champagne, Romulus couldn't stop Ypsi senior fullback Andre Budley who ran havoc over the Eagles.

When he finished with his opponents, the hard-running Budley had piled up 200 yards in eight tries and scored three touchdowns.

"He is just an outstanding athlete," Glover noted. "As I have said all along, this Ypsi team is the best I have seen in recent years. They have everything. I would be very much surprised if they didn't reach the state playoffs this year."

Romulus did get 50 of its 72 yards rushing off of the performance of Eric Harris and Robert Holt, who quarterbacked the Eagles against the Braves, finished with a pair of pass completions for 46 yards.

The Eagles almost averted the shutout, but the scoring threat came long after the Braves had put away the game. In the final minutes of the game, Holt drove his team to the Braves' one-yard line where they couldn't punch it in.

Ypsi had a 13-0 lead after one quarter and had an insurmountable edge (27-0) at halftime. They added a field goal in the third quarter and that was the extent of their scoring.

"Ypsi cut off everything we got going. They are smarter. Quicker and dominating," Glover concluded.

It's all for love, but Tigers still play for 1st net win

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Tigers at Belleville High are playing more tennis these days and loving it.

Unfortunately, Coach Susan McCarney's netters can't seem to find their way into the winning column. They dropped their seventh straight match last week, losing by identical 7-0 scores to Wolverine 'A' Conference rivals Southgate Anderson and Wayne Memorial, also falling to non-conference foe, Ypsilanti, by a 7-0 score.

"We're in a tough league," Coach McCarney said. "And these kids are inexperienced and young. However, they are playing hard and I feel that the end results will be good."

McCarney said that she is seeing improvement "right down the lineup - from No.1 singles to No. 3 doubles."

The toughest assignment has gone to Lena Widener, who is playing in the No. 1 singles, "playing all the toughest opponents," McCarney said.

Krista VanAllen, a junior, has come close to ending the victory drought in the No. 3 singles. With a year of competition ahead of her, the Tiger coach believes that VanAllen could develop into an outstanding player.

Brittany Hall, No. 2 singles, is also "coming along fine," according to the Belleville coach.

Belleville returned to the courts yesterday, taking on league rival, Wyandotte. On Thursday, the Tigers are at home to Lincoln Park.

Both league opponents are "in our class", McCarney said.

"I believe if we play well, we even have a chance to beat them. They are in the same shoes that we are in."

This is the second year that Belleville High has fielded a varsity tennis team. Two years ago, an independent group raised more than $100,000 to construct eight tennis courts which are located adjacent to the high school.

State champs to play in district

Divine Child cagers seek repeat performance

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Divine Child, the reigning Class B state girls basketball champion, will begin the defense of its crown at Robichaud High School.

The Falcons will launch the post-season playoffs at the Dearborn Heights-based high school where at least five other Class B schools will attempt to derail the champs.

Also slated to see action at Robichaud are Annapolis, Crestwood, Inkster, Robichaud, and Willow Run, according to Leit S. Jones, tournament manager and athletic director at Robichaud High.

In the past D.C. has encountered strong opposition from Robichaud and Inkster, but the Bulldogs are off to a miserable 0-6 season and Inkster has already been beaten twice this season.

"We have not made the tournament pairings," stated Jones, "but the dates and times of the tournament have been announced."

The first of the Class B District 41 games is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Thurs., Nov. 17; the second game will be played Fri., Nov. 18. On Mon., Nov. 21, there are two games scheduled -5 and 7:30 p.m.

The championship will be played at 5:30 p.m. on Wed., Nov. 23. There is a $3 admission to all games.

Huron

bed Riverview 64-17 behind senior guard Lauri Labeau's season-high 26 points. Laurel Haener added 19 points and 15 rebounds while Janet Hughes contributed 10 for the winners.

Coach Bill Harrison's Chiefs made it four straight in the league (7-1) overall at the expense of an excellent Flat Rock club. Flat Rock couldn't match the outstanding performance of Haener, a 5-10 senior center who tossed in a career-high 30 points and also nailed 15 rebounds to lead Huron to the big victory. Labeau added 15 points.

The Chiefs had difficulty shaking their conference rivals. They led 18-15 after one period and 36-30 after two, but a switch in defenses - Huron went to a full-court press - in the third period changed the tide. The Chiefs capitalized on Flat Rock's turnovers and pushed ahead by 16 as the third period ended.

It's another one of those big weeks for Harrison and the Chiefs who, after meeting Monroe CC last night, will face Grosse Ile tomorrow night at home.

Supersewer: Smoke testing part of improvement plan

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Officials involved in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Project, also known as "supersewer," anxiously awaited word from Washington on a federal grant worth $8-10 million.

The grant, announced Saturday at a Nankin Mills press conference, means the $70 million project is on its way.

"A number of communities on their own have gone ahead with testing," said Richard Hinshon of Wade, Trim & Associates in Lansing, "the state insisted on that being done concurrent with the project."

Hinshon said that none of the testing should involve construction activity.

> If local residents, however, see smoke coming out of the sewer gutters, they should not be alarmed, said Art Wiitala, acting director of the department of public services for the city of Westland.

If local residents, however, see smoke coming out of the sewer gutters, they should not be alarmed, said Art Wiitala, acting director of the department of public services for the city of Westland, as this is the procedure involved in testing the sewer lines.

"It's all part of our sewer system evaluation survey that will be starting in another week or so," Wiitala said. "We have already made visual inspection of manholes. We're going to try to alert everyone with a door hanger that the smoke is nontoxic and won't come into the home."

Wiitala confirmed that sewer work being conducted at Warren and Merriman roads is not part of supersewer, but merely local repair efforts.

The North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley project is one of the last remains of the "old supersewer" project that had been proposed to accommodate wastewater flows in Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

The project is among several efforts to alleviate the major sources of pollution in the Rouge River and its tributaries.

A recent agreement between the Western Townships Utilities Authority and the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority will divert the wastewater of Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships to a treatment plant in Ypsilanti, bypassing supersewer.

This agreement is also expected to add to the water quality in the Rouge River, as the treated water from the three communities will be pumped into the Lower Rouge River.

The proposed NHV/RV system, planned and designed by Wade, Trim & Associates, is to provide interceptor transport capacity for excess sewage now being generated throughout much of western Wayne County.

The project will serve 10 communities including Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Novi, Redford Township, Romulus, Van Buren Township, Wayne and Westland.

Following is the allocation of costs of local share of the NHV/RV wastewater control system:

- Dearborn Heights, 18.76 percent;
- Garden City, 0.00 percent;
- Inkster, 1.90 percent;
- Livonia, 18.61 percent;
- Northville, 4.06 percent;
- Novi, 28.17 percent;
- Redford Township, 7.44 percent;
- Romulus, 0.19 percent;
- Van Buren Township, 0.93 percent;
- Wayne, 5.03 percent; and
- Westland, 14.91 percent.

Percentage allocations are based on an estimated project cost of $55.10 million.

The project will consist of 17.6 miles of interceptor sewer to be operated by Wayne County providing sufficient capacity for current and future flows in the area through the year 2025.

It is anticipated that funds for the first segment of the project will be awarded in early October, with construction starting the calendar year after bids are taken and bonds are sold by Wayne County.

PLEASE, DON'T HANG UP

Answering machines create more phobias

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Everyone who ever dreamed of having a personal secretary to answer his telephone day or night – whether he was at home, at work, at play or on the road – believed his wish had come true with the advent of the telephone answering machine.

"At last," said the irritated individual who was tired of missing important phone calls. "I'll never have another person tell me "I tried to call you last weekend but the phone rang and rang and no one answered."

The electronic innovation seemed to be the perfect answer for the teenager waiting for an invitation to the prom, the "temporarily-between-assignments" freelancer hoping for work, the night worker who didn't want his sleep disturbed during the day and the "on-call" temporary worker who feared missing an opportunity for a few extra hours of employment.

It was also thought to be a boon to some journalists who would rather find a message on their tape informing them that area kindergartners would be finger-painting on Tuesday morning, rather than be called at 11:15 p.m. the day prior to the event with the same news bulletin.

But, did the answering tape solve those problems? No, now the machine owners are faced with a tape-full of hang-ups and dial tones from friends, acquaintances and prospective employers who suffer from "Phone-phobia," "Techno-phobia" and a new form of paranoia, "Caller Avoidance Suspicion Syndrome."

Although the study of these new phobias is still in its infant stage, those who study human behaior might genenerally lump them together as adjustment reactions to new forms of technology.

Those afflicted with Phone-phobia are probably the same individuals who froze on stage during their eighth-grade assembly and couldn't remember the words to the Pledge of Allegiance. They are the folks who had to carry cue cards on their wedding day to remember the words, "I do."

When the victims of Phone-phobia hear the words, "please leave your message at the sound of the tone," visions of their eighth-grade assembly and their wedding day flash back in their minds and they are struck speechless. It doesn't matter that they could have talked directly to the individual they had called for hours on end, the machine automatically strikes them mute, resulting in the sound of the hang-up and dial tone on the answering tape.

Victims of Techno-phobia are a more aggressive breed – their hang-ups are signs of their protest to automation and mechanical devices. If they can't talk to someone directly, they say, they refuse to talk to a machine.

Therefore, no matter how important the message is or how urgently they need to communicate with the person they called, the Techno-phobics bang down the receiver when they hear the taped message.

Often, these are the people who will tell you smugly, "I had planned to invite you to my party, but you weren't home and you know how I hate to leave messages on a tape recorder."

Finally, there are the victims of Caller Avoidance Suspicion Syndrome who believe that the person they have called is actually sitting by his phone monitoring the calls – deciding which ones to answer and which ones to delegate to the answering tape.

"Ah ha," speculates the CASS victim, who hears the message. "I know he's there. I can hear him breathing. If I say something, he may not pick up the phone, and that means he doesn't want to talk to me. If I leave a message, he may not call me back, anyway, but then he'll know that I want to talk to him. However, if I don't leave a message and ...."

Cute or creative, messages tell all

"Thank you for calling. This is a recording. But I bet this recording is better than your recording . . . ."

Keeping up with the Jones has entered a high-technological high with telephone answering machines. From creative, homemade announcements to store-bought, studio productions, what we have on our answering tapes says much about our character, psychologists say.

We jotted down messages of answering machines messages from around the area. Perhaps, you might want to adapt one for your own.

■ Hello, this is Robin Leach, and I'm taking calls for the Jones' because they're too rich and famous to take them themselves. Leave a message at the tone, and they'll get back with you as soon as their yacht returns to port.

■ (With James Bond theme music in background) This is Jones. Bill Jones, and I'm out leading a life of mystery and intrigue. Leave a message at the tone, and I'll get back with you, should I survive my latest mission.

■ We can't take your call right now because we are in the bedroom doing unspeakable things to each other. If we have the energy, we'll get back to you. But don't forget to leave a message at the tone.

Increased recorder sales are sign of times for retailers

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Telephone answering machines are no longer a luxury item; they are no longer a trendy toy; they are an integral part of an increasingly mobile society, according to Kathy Dubisky, manager of a Radio Shack franchise in Westland.

And they're here to stay.

"They are a necessity," Dubisky said. "We're a mobile society. I don't think it's good or bad. In most families today both parents work, people are on the go."

In Dubisky's store at 35511 Ford Road, there are eight different kinds of answering machines, each kind designed to accommodate individual needs.

Dubisky said she has been selling answering machines for seven years and they have become not only more affordable, but more reliable as well.

For the reluctant message-taker, there are pre-recorded message tapes or synthesized voices that can address the caller without embarrassment, without guilt.

There is voice-actuation, call monitoring, security codes, service plans, two-way conversation capability, remote features, toll-savers and call breakthrough.

The more you spend, the more features you get.

At the Westland Radio Shack, you can spend anywhere from $59-$199.95.

The top-of-the-line Radio Shack answering machine is the Duofone TAD-320. For $199.95, you get this:

- Voice actuation – when the caller stops speaking, the machine stops recording; no wasted tape.
- Security codes – prevents unauthorized remote use.
- Call monitoring – screen callers before answering.
- Two-way conversations – records.
- Beeperless remote – control of all major functions from a touch-tone telephone.
- Voice synthesizer – tells you time and date of each call.
- Toll-saver – if you call long-distance to check your messages and there are none, the machine will indicate so, saving the cost of a toll call.

Another answering machine with special features is the

JUST MARRIED

Ignas – Kehrer

Carol Sue Ignas, of Dean Street, Wayne, and Cory Christopher Kehrer, of Dean Street, Wayne, were united in marriage Sept. 3 at St. Johns Lutheran Church, in Westland. Approximately 100 guests attended the double-ring ceremony, at which the Rev. Robert Baer officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Ignas, of Dean Street, Wayne. She is the 1984 valedictorian of Wayne Memorial High School and a 1988 graduate of Eastern Michigan University. She is a management trainee at Trustcorp., Inc. in Toledo, Ohio.

The groom is the son of Wendy Berean, of Dean Street, Wayne, and Ernest Kehrer, of Onekama. He is a 1986 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School and is employed at Allmand Enterprises, of Livonia.

The church was decorated with white carnations and pink roses. A unity candle was also lighted.

Music was provided by the late Fred Bieden Bender.

The bridal dress was of taffeta, with three tiers of ruffles, Venice lace, pearls on bodice, gathered short sleeves and chapel-length train. Her veil featured a wreath with pearls and white flowers, fingertip in length.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Alphonse Ignas.

Maid of honor for the occasion was Catherine Myrand, sister of the bride' of Detroit. Bridesmaids included Kimberly Suyak, a friend of the bride, of Kalamazoo, and Shelie Kehrer, the groom's sister, of Wayne.

Seeing red is just fine for bananas

Have you seen them yet? During my mad dash through the grocery store last week, I happened to encounter them in the produce section and the very sight made me smile.

Red bananas were the source of my amusement as I recalled the first time I ever saw the rather unusual fruit in the market. I didn't know what they were, what to do with them and thought that perhaps chemical warfare had a more obvious effect than even suspected.

Red bananas are no more than an oddity of nature and, in banana country, are a well-known and highly prized treat. They are, actually, just strong bananas. They have the same texture and taste as the yellow variety, just more of it.

Red bananas are available now, but don't stay on the grocers' shelves long, so make haste if you plan to try this one. Regular bananas can be used, but the stronger flavor of the reds is really superior.

Red banana and raspberry tart

8 tablespoons (1/4 pound) unsalted butter
1 1/8 cups all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1/8 teaspoons salt (kosher if possible)
1/4 cup cold water

Cut the butter into 1-inch pieces. Using the electric mixer, blend the butter and flour at low speed until they resemble coarse meal. Mix the sugar, salt and water, and add them to the flour mixture. Stop once, soon after you start mixing, to scrape the bowl and beaters. Blend only until the dough comes together. Put the dough on a floured board and sprinkle with a little flour. Shape into a thick circle and roll to fit into a pie shell. Trim to fit pan. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line the pastry shell with aluminum foil and fill with dry beans all the way to edge to hold shape of shell. Bake for 20 minutes, remove the foil and beans and return to oven to bake until golden brown and shell has pulled away from sides of pan (about 15 minutes).

For the filling:

1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 large egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons unsalted, softened butter
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift the sugar, flour and cornstarch together into a mixing bowl. Add the egg and beat unitl light. Bring the milk to a boil in a heavy-bottomed saucepan. Stir half the milk into the egg mixture, then pour the whole mixture back into the pan. Cook over high heat, stirring continuously with a wire whisk, until the center bubbles and the mixture is very thick. Stir vigorously to keep the mixture from sticking and the egg from scrambling. Remove from heat and stir in the butter and vanilla. Cool.

Also for the filling:

3 large, ripe red bananas
1/4 cup fresh orange juice
1 pint raspberries

Peel the bananas. Cut them in quarters lengthwise, then across into 1-inch chunks. Toss them in the orange juice (to keep them from turning color), then drain them and pat with a towel to remove excess liquid. Stir into the cooled cream filling. Spread the banana cream in the cooled tart shell. Cover the top with raspberries. Press raspberries, ever so slightly, into filling to hold in place. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

MICROWAVES ARE FOR KIDS, too

Children are master chefs in the kitchen

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Cooks of all ages and backgrounds are catching the wave - microwave, that is – with televised cooking classes conducted by two local chefs.

Chili Joe (Wnuk) and Chef Curtis (Rellinger) present the latest in microwave recipes and cooking tips to their audiences via their Omnicom progam, Microwave Today. Each of their programs focuses on a special theme – ethnic recipes, fish dishes, gourmet foods, easy-to-fix snacks or classic cooking. One of their recent shows featured a number of "easy as pie" recipes for youngsters to prepare in the microwave oven.

Before the young cooks begin cooking, Chili Joe advised, they should be made aware of a few basic rules – use only microwave-safe containers, use hot pads when removing containers from the oven and follow directions carefully. Children also should be cautioned not to use paper plates, towels or napkins to hold snack foods for cooking in the microwave for more than 4 minutes,he said.

Children can start cooking by making some simple snacks like hot dogs, indoor s'mores and nachos, the Westland chef said. A first step for youngsters could be making warm chocolate chip cookies or cocoa – both easy for children to prepare with a little direction and supervision from a parent or other adult.

▲ Using the home microwave is easy for kids and can be a great aid to busy mothers, according to chefs Chili Joe Wnuk and Curtis Rellinger. The two host a cable-television food show on the Omnicom systems. Belleville-area youngsters Stephanie Shephard (above), 3, and Scott Shephard, 1 1/2, were eager to try their own hands at microwave cooking. ANP photos by Joan Mary Dyer

Warm-up chocolate chips

Place 2 cookies on a paper place and cook on high for 10 seconds.

Kids quick cocoa

1 envelope instant chocolate mix
2/3 cup cold water

Put the envelope of chocolate mix and water into a 10 ounce mug and stir. Cook on high for 1 to 1-1/2 minutes.

Kids lunch in a flash

1 hot dog
1 bun
Condiments (ketchup, mustard, relish, etc.)

Place hot dog in bun, wrap in a napkin and place in the microwave on high for 30 seconds. Apply condiments and serve with potato chips and a beverage.

Indoor s'mores

Graham crackers
1/2 of 1- to 1.5-ounce milk chocolate candy bar
Marshmallows

Place a graham cracker on a paper plate, top with 1/2 candy bar, a large marshmallow cut in half and another graham cracker. Cook in the microwave on high or 30 to 60 seconds. Eat one and then eat s'more.

TV nachos ole

18 Tortilla chips
1 tablespoon taco sauce
1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Arrange 18 tortilla chips on a paper plate, drizzle 1 tablespoon taco sauce over the chips and sprinkle with shredded cheese and microwave for 30 seconds on high. If the cheese is not melted, microwave for another 10 seconds. Let stand for one minute.

Chili Joe recommends an easy and nutritious breakfast which can be prepared by a youngster in about three minutes. Served with a toasted English muffin and a glass of orange juice or milk, the quick microwave recipe is an excellent way to start the school day.

Kids' microwave cooking rules

Microwave for kids is simple and fun - as long as the rules are followed, according to local chefs Chili Joe Wnuk and Chef Curtis Rellinger. The two host a cooking program on Omnicom Cablevision.

They have offered the following cooking rules for kids to observe:

- Use only microwave-safe dishes;
- Use hot pads when removing containers from the oven;
- Follow package directions carefully;
- Do not use paper plates, towels or napkins to hold foods in the microwave for more than four minutes; and
- Seek parental help when necessary.

▲ Stephanie is careful to follow the chefs' simple rules to microwave cooking, which include safety precautions and microwave-container awareness.

Stir then cook on high for 20 seconds, remove from the microwave oven and let stand for one minute. Place the smokey links on a microwave-safe dish and cook on high for 30 seconds. Place eggs on plate with smokey links and serve with toast or an English muffin plus a glass of orange juice or milk.

2 English muffins (sliced) or French bread
1/2 cup prepared pizza sauce
1/2 cup mozzarella cheese
Dash of oregano

Spread pizza sauce on muffins or bread. Top with a dash of oregano and cheese, cook 2 minutes in the microwave on high.

For the Halloween season, Mom or Dad may want to aid the youngsters in preparing some special holiday treats – caramel apples – for parties or snacking.

Caramel apples

6 medium apples
6 wooden skewers (or clean popsicle sticks)
1 pound caramels
1 tablespoon water

Wash and dry apples and insert skewers of popsicle sticks into the center of each one. Place the caramels and water in a deep narrow glass bowl. Microwave 2 minutes and stir until smooth. Dip apples into caramel mixture and twirl to coat. Place on buttered waxed paper until cool. (If caramel mixture becomes too stiff as it cools, microwave 15 to 30 seconds more.) To make just one caramel apple, use 9 caramels and 1 teaspoon water and microwave the mixture for 30 to 45 seconds.

Rice Krispy bars

1/4 cup margarine or butter
4 cups miniature marshmallows or 45 large marshmallows
5 cups Rice Krispies cereal

Place butter and marshmallows in a 3-quart casserole, uncovered. Microwave 3 minutes, stirring often. Add cereal and mix until completely coated with marshmallow mixture. Press into 8-by-12-inch or 9-by-13-inch pan (with buttered hands or light plastic wrap). Cool and then cut into bars. Makes 24 large bars.

Cupcake cones

1 package 17-oz. cake mix, any flavor
1 package frosting mix
24 to 30 flat bottom ice cream cones

Prepare the cake mix according to directions. Fill cones with 2 tablespoons batter, or about half full. Bake 6 cones at a time for one to one and one-fourth minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Frost the cupcakes and decorate with sprinkles, if desired.

1 pound powdered sugar
1/2 cup cocoa

1 tablespoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Sift powered sugar and cocoa into a medium glass mixing bowl. Blend sugar and cocoa. Add milk and margarine, but do not stir. Microwave 2 minutes. Add vanilla. Stir just to blend. Pour onto a buttered platter, or an 8- or 9-inch pan. Sprinkle with nuts (either chopped walnuts or pecans). Freeze 20 minutes or chill about 1 hour. Cut when firm.

Job training

Agency provides job placement without the fee

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Good news for job seekers – there's a free training and placement service in the Greater Detroit area that can make you employable in a variety of capacities.

Called SER Metro Detroit, Jobs for Progress, Inc., the non-profit, community-based company has locations throughout Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties.

The agency, in existence for 17 years, trains 750-1,000 people each year, and places 89-90 percent of those in an appropriate job, according to Robert Jones, an SER Metro Detroit recruiter based in Romulus. There are recruiting offices in Pontiac, Ypsilanti, Romulus, Detroit, Dearborn and Garden City.

"My job is to inform the community of the programs we have available," Jones said. "The most important thing is that we have a very good track record and placement rate. Everything is free to those who qualify."

SER is the Hispanic verb for "to be," said Jones. It also stands for "Service Employment Redevelopment."

Among the various skills taught by SER Metro is clerical work, word processing, computer, bookkeeping and accounting.

Jones said training is provided free to adults with a GED, anyone who has not earned a high school diploma and all adults between the ages of 17 and 19.

Many of the applicants to SER Metro Detroit are placed in adult community education programs already in place in the local school districts.

"In the past, it has been extremely difficult to recruit people for adult education," Jones said. "We have a pretty good track record. We do provide instructors and facilities in some cases; in other cases, we rely on joint cooperation (between SER and the school system)."

For more information on SER Metro Detroit and the services it offers, call the Romulus recruiting center at 941-8488.

'It is going to be a tough week for traders'

The axiom "never short a dull market" seemed to be in effect last week. The market resistance to downward pressure may have caused "short sellers" to move to the buy side to cover positions.

Coupled with the Federal Reserve Board evenhanded position and some slight buying enthusiasm, this caused what appeared to be a rally. However, this rally had a narrow base, and most Dow stocks failed to fully respond.

The Fed continued low profile leaves the market open to speculation. This week, interest rates will be flat, with a slight upward bias. Adding to the negative this week will be a small improvement in gold and silver prices.

Short-term traders this week are evenly divided between buyers and sellers. They are looking at all indicators for some sign to indicate market direction. Early session selling will be offset by late-session buying.

Intermediate- and long-term traders will be slow starters but, on balance, will be on the buy side.

It will be a tough week for traders. This is the start of a new fiscal year, fiscal quarter, and we will elect a president. The market would like to bet on Fed support for George Bush, but there is no evidence to indicate that this is the case.

'It may be too soon. Most stocks seem to be churning and marching in place. Falling oil prices will give a slight boost to stock prices by the end of this session.

MARKET AVERAGES: Dow 2112.91; TRANS 906.96; UTIL 181.54; S&P 271.91; NYA 153.57; OEX 256.93; AMEX XMI 410.15.

Machine

This model, available for $179.95, features memory dialing, a speaker phone and beeperless remote.

A third model, the TAD-245, available for $129.95, features "important call" breakthrough. This feature is designed for those families with one or more teenagers, whose ears seem permanently attached to the receiver.

"You can send a 'beep' over the line to let the person on the phone know that a call is trying to get through," said Dubisky.

It's like call-forwarding, she said, without the extra charge assessed by the phone company.

The answering machines are one of the most popular items in the store, according to Gregg Newsom, 18, of Ypsilanti. Newsom works at the Westland Radio Shack with Dubisky. "It's just the idea that you can get your messages," he said. "It's a lot cheaper than the old answering service where they relay the message."

Newsom said people will be less likely to hang up on an answering machine if the message is semi-funny or humorous. "If you surprise the people with a strange voice, it helps," he added.

One unusual use for the endless-loop tape which is used in an answering machine for outgoing messages is as a practice tape for parrots, said Newsom. One customer, he said, purchased an endless-loop tape so he could play it for his bird.

Dubisky sells between four and five machines per week and expects to sell as many as 200 during the upcoming Christmas season.

Parrot-owners need not apply, she said.

VISIT THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

As you approach the Virgin Islands by air you can appreciate the vacation potential of this sunny, green galaxy of islands some 45 miles east of Puerto Rico. The islands are territories of two countries. The U.S. Virgin Islands to the south and the British Virgin Islands to the northeast. National distinctions are scarcely noticeable. English is spoken everywhere and U.S. currency is legal tender.

Temperatures are near perfect year-round and days without sunshine are rare. Prices mid-April to mid-December (the so called 'off season') are a boon for families. Most accommodations cost 20 to 40% less at that time.

St. Thomas and St. Croix are the most developed. The scattering of some 100 other small islands remain more laid back and natural. You can hopscotch among islands choosing your pleasure: camp out in "paradise"; set sail at sea or lounge away your days at a vacation resort.

One week packages at this time start at $669 per person including air.

Windsor.

It's calling you back.

Every time you go to Windsor, there's something new to discover.

There's a great restaurant and Irish Pub on Wyandotte East, 3 blocks from the tunnel. It's Dan Flannagan's and it specializes in steak and seafood. Flannagan's offers Irish beer, darts and live entertainment weekends.

Or how about an Indian restaurant? That would be the Royal Bengal Indian Curry House, on Wyandotte, downtown. Enjoy authentic Indian dishes, seasoned with natural herbs.

If you want to discover interesting places to shop, there are 175 of them at Devonshire Mall, 10 minutes from downtown at Howard and E.C. Row Expressway. Shop where Canadians shop and save.

And when you just can't pull yourself away from Windsor, stay over at the Inn General, formerly Red Oak Inn, downtown on Ouellette. A friendly, family-owned hotel and restaurant, the Inn General is a great place for your next weekend escape. It's so easy to get to, just say. . .
